

BioSafe Systems Introduces New Retail Technical Sales Representative

BioSafe Systems is excited to introduce the newest member of our retail market team. On August 15, 2011, Andrew Jager joined the retail segment of our company as an outside sales technical support representative.

Though Andrew is new to BioSafe Systems, he is already familiar with the ins and outs of the retail market. Andrew has fourteen years of sales experience under his belt, many of them within the retail market in the east coast and midwest. Here at BioSafe Systems, he will work closely with Angelique Levesque to expand and strengthen our position and relationships in the midwest.

We are eager to see Andrew's positive contributions to our company and enthusiastically welcome him to our organization.
